Regarding your international conference in Beijing in 2001, I received your email expressing a desire to recruit organizers, speakers, etc. Although I am not a candidate to attend, speak, or participate, I do edit a newsletter that goes out bi-monthly to biotechnology and biomedical companies in Washington State, USA. I would be able to put a paragraph in the newsletter about your project, just in case any of our readers would be interested. The email you sent is too long for use in our newsletter. Can you write the most important points into one paragraph, with contact information at the end (email, mailing address web page URL) and I will put it in an upcoming edition of our newsletter, if we have space.

Also, if anyone joins your committee from Washington State, we would like to include that information in an upcoming edition of our newsletter, so please keep us updated.

Thank you.
